Letter To The Editor

Holly Hill, Friendship, Md. 20758
April 13, 1977

Dear Sir,

I am writing a book (nearly completed) on the Clagett family and its descendants bearing other names. An offshoot of this family used to live at Appomattox, and descendants may still be there. If you would publish this letter asking living relatives, or any one having knowledge of them, to get in touch with me, I should be most grateful.

Benjamin F. Oden, a native of Berkley Co., W. Va., and a Clagett descendant, lived at Appomattox and died there in 1930. His wife was named Ida Ferguson. He left a daughter, Betty Alverna Oden, and a brother, Archibald Oden. Also mentioned in his will were Mrs. Vera Burke Abbitt and Richard Leigh Burke, who were apparently friends rather than relatives. I know nothing further.

I should appreciate any help with this from your readers very much indeed.

Yours sincerely,
Brice M. Clagett

The Pastor Speaks

Too often, even in the church, we are more interested in where we have been than in where we are going. The certain glories of the past seem often brighter than the dangers of the future.

So it was in the earliest church, in the days between the first Easter and Pentecost. Looking backward at the wonderful earthly ministry of Jesus, the Disciples, dedicated and committed more than any others in human history, were filled with doubts and fears about what they should do next. "Do nothing," some must have said, believing that Jesus would quickly return and the final rule of God would begin.

The response of our Lord, in effect, was "work while you wait." Engage in mission to the world. Proclaim your faith. Shape the future of the world. Make Jesus the Lord of history as well as the Saviour of the world.

In the church today, it serves little purpose to remember the record Sunday School attendance set ten years ago unless it is a spur to break the record anew. Always plan the next set of evangelistic visitations, the next ministry to older persons, the next seeking out of the needs of youth. You are no wiser than those earliest Christians. You, also, must depend on hope for the future, even though it is no easier today than it was back then.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

"LOW SUNDAY"

Lesson for April 24, 1977

Background Scripture: Mark 16:9-20; Luke 24:36-52
Devotional Reading: John 20:19-31

In many churches the Sunday after Easter is known as "Low Sunday." One of my reference books says that "the origin of this title is not known," but anyone in the Christian ministry can tell you what its probable derivation is: the Sunday after Easter usually sees a striking decline in attendance in most churches. For the pastor who is exhausted from the ministerial marathon of Lent and Holy Week it is often also "Low Sunday" both physiologically and psychologically. Lent is over; Easter has come and gone for another year.

You are witnesses

If there is any truth in this observation, then there must be something radically wrong in the way we understand and observe the meaning of Easter. Perhaps "Low Sunday" is a seeming denial of the significance of Jesus' resurrection which is now regarded as a beginning than an ending.

The Gospels are instructive for us: what happened after the first Easter? Did the disciples go back to their homes with a warm, but temporary feeling of well-being and victory — something akin to having one's team win the World Series, the Super Bowl, the NCAA, or the Stanley Cup? (No matter how excited we may get over these, how stale they seem a few days later.)

No, it was not "back to business-as-usual" for the disciples. In fact, it would never again be "back" to anything. The resurrection faith is like any other important spiritual truth: it is not just something to "know." It is something "to live out" in our lives. It was not enough for the disciples to know that Jesus was risen, but the fact of his resurrection was something which was to deeply affect the way they lived for the rest of their days.

There was no "Low Sunday" following the first Easter. Jesus came to his disciples, not just to celebrate what had happened in the garden tomb of Joseph of Arimathea, but to tell them what to do about it. After the celebration there was a commission: "...repentance and forgiveness of sins should be preached in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. You are witnesses of these things" (24:47).

Continually in the temple

It is interesting that following the great commission the disciples "were continually in the temple praising God" (24:53). Quite unlike our experience today, the fact of Easter was not a signal to decrease, but to increase their devotion to God. Not only did life go on after Easter, it accelerated.

It is not the attendence in church on "Low Sunday" that I am concerned about, but the implicit meaning of that let-down. It does not bother me that churches are usually overflowing on Easter Sunday, but that so many of those attending do not realize that the celebration of Easter is meaningless without the commission of Easter. "You are witnesses" said Jesus. The witness not only knows something, he also must testify to what he knows. If Easter is worth celebrating, it is also worth implementing. To sing that "Christ is risen" is futile if we go back to "business-as-usual."

TO CURE OR TO KILL

It is commonly known that driving and drinking don't mix. But most drivers are unaware that the antihistamines they may take for head colds, as well as sedatives, tranquilizers and some antibotics, have much the same effect upon them as alcohol. They tend to slow down the reflexes and sometimes cause drowsiness or dizziness.

There are documented cases of drivers who lost control of a vehicle a few minutes after taking a tranquilizer or sedative. When alcohol and many of these medications are taken in combination, their effect can be increased and devastating.

On the other side of the coin, don't put too much faith in the effect of "stay awake" pills to overcome fatigue. They can actually put you to sleep with your eyes open. Heavy use of pain killers can also put you to sleep at the wheel - permanently.

Then and Now

By Frances H. Paulette

"SPRING CLEANING"

For many of us today, the coming of spring may mean off with the heat and on with the air-conditioning. But things haven't always been that simple. In the days of THEN spring meant Spring Cleaning. I talked with Mrs. J. Mott Harvey, 86, of Evergreen, Va. and a charter member of the Bethany Home Demonstration Club; she remembers well what spring cleaning was like in the days of THEN. I appreciate some of the experiences she shared with me; it made it possible for me to write a little tribute to spring cleaning.

"Spring Cleaning Then"

Spring is here - - - the time has come,
For tackling spring cleaning, room by room;
'Twas a well-known fact in the days of THEN
To neglect spring cleaning was a mortal sin.

The beds were stripped, quilts hung on the line - - -
Beaten and aired, 'til they smelled just fine.
The feather tick mattress was laid in the sun,
For nature's "sanitizing" until the day was done.

The furniture was quickly moved outside,
Nothing was left w. dirt could hide.
Then car's the job of clean ng the floor - - -
In the good ole days th was quite a chore!

First the bucket, filled with white creek sand,
Then take the corn shuck mop in hand - - -
Scrub really hard until the boards are clean,
The floor looks good, but your back feels mean!

Take the "broom sage" broo sweep up the sand,
Then lye soap and water in a pan,
Rinse well until the sand and soap are gone - - -
Then rest a spell on the shady lawn.

Next came the windows - - - they must be done,
With vinegar and water 'til they gleamed in the sun.
Any old papers would do for a shine,
The windows are finished - - - they look just fine!

If cleaning NOW was like the days of THEN
Quite a few of us might never begin!
But for all those ladies who cleaned that way - - -
They were hard working gals—that's all I can say!

Had you ladies lived in the days of THEN, the following "Recept" for washing clothes would have been a great deal of help. I am grateful to Shirley Walton for the following:

"Recept" For Washing Clothes

1. Bild a fire in the backyard to het a kettle of water. 2. Set tubs so smoke won't blow in your eyes if the wind is pert. 3. Shave one hole cake of lie soap in biling water. 4. Sort things - make three piles; 1 pile white, 1 pile of cullord, and 1 pile of werk britches and rags. 5. Stur flour in cold water until smooth then thin down with biling water. 6. Rub dirt spots on board, scrub hard, then bile, rub cullord but don't bile - - - just rench and starch. 7. Take white things out of kettle with broomstick handle - - - rench and bleu and starch. 8. Spread tee towels on grass. 9. Hang old rags on the fence. 10. Pore rench water in the flowers beds. 11. Scrub porch with hot soapy water. 12. Turn tubs upside down. 13. Go put on a clean dress - - - smooth hair with side combs, brew a cup of tee - - - set and rest and rock a spell and most of all COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS.

The next time I get impatient for my automatic washer to finish spinning so that I can load the dryer, I'll remember this and COUNT MY BLESSINGS. Won't you please do the same? By the way, don't forget "spring cleaning" - - - it would be a mortal sin!
